

During this global pandemic and the resultant disruption to business and the way we work, we are continuing to build resilience into our business model and improve the quality of our services.

Within our core business of security operations and consultancy, we are always focused on meeting our customers' expectations through implementation of best practices.

We understand the challenges faced by our team members, especially those who are client facing and whose performance and dedication is the hallmark of who we are as an organization.

Like any crisis, we believe "this shall pass through" and see this as an opportunity to prepare for a recovery with a "new normal". Therefore, building "Risk Based thinking" and "Resilience" into our business models is more important than ever before.

Over the past few months, we at OMNIRISC using international standards ISO 9001, ISO 14001 and ISO 45001, have been rigorously assessing our organizational culture, business portfolio, best practices, stress testing our performance, operational standards and capabilities.
